Human Resources Leader Joins Asante

Lyndell Smith began work at Asante on Feb. 2 as the organization's new director of human resources administration. A search to fill the position lasted about two months.

Lyndell has held human resources leadership positions in the Rogue Valley for many years. She most recently served for 12 years as director of human resources at Fire Mountain Gems and Beads in Grants Pass, directing human resource operations, organizational development and risk management.

She previously worked for six years at the Rogue Valley Manor, where she was responsible for human resources operations, benefits administration and risk management.

Lyndell is an adjunct professor in the School of Business at Southern Oregon University, where she teaches a course on personnel selection and appraisal.

She received her bachelor's degree and a master of business administration degree from SOU.

She has served as a board member and vice president of the Rogue Workforce Partnership, and as district director in the Oregon State Council of the Society for Human Resource Management.

Lyndell's office is located in the Human Resources building at Asante. Email Lyndell to welcome her to the organization.
